GIORGIO SCHIAVON

Giorgio Schiavon was born on 11 May 1961 in Malcontenta, Venice, Italy. At eight years old he started playing harmonium bellows and in the following years he continued practicing with organs and keyboards in general.

In 1984, he began to study saxophone as student of Renato Geremia and, for a short period, of Steve Lacy. Since 1985 he has been playing sax with the orchestra of salsa music "Batistococo". He works as saxophonist, composer and author.

From 1987 to 1997, he has taught saxophone and music theory and became President of the musical association "The Mute", which is one of the founders of the "Favaro" Music Center in Venice, specialized in history of the Venetian popular music.

From 1988 to 1992, he worked with the musical group "Freecko" for which he has written songs and dedicated to programming sequences on computer.

In 1994, he founded "Gauge", for which he works as composer and saxophone player. He is currently producing the third CD. He daily works in his studio of musical productions (Gauge Studio – Venice) where he always composes and records his music.

Since 2014, he collaborates with violinist Sara Michieletto, in compositions, arrangements and performances.

RENE' VAN HELSDINGEN

Over the years René van Helsdingen has recorded and produced for many different labels, such as Virgin, Timeless, WEA, Dureco, Zebra Acoustic, Pacific Music, Munich Records as well as his own labels: Relukreul records and Helsdingen Music, the Netherlands, and Demajors Jakarta, Indonesia. His jazz piano work is articulate, engaging and always encourages good side men. René writes most of his repertoire.

“A rewarding pianist who can play comfortably in the groove, or create more impressionistic patterns, or quiet, subtle musings. Perhaps the most notable quality of his solos is brevity. René allows himself a few extended workouts and avoids the trap of repeating himself or overstating his case” from The Age” Melbourne, 23 Dec. 1996

René has always been engaged intensively and continuously in composing, performing and recording of music on sound recording media.

He has a copyright arrangement with BUMA STEMRA Netherlands.
